

Mobile Indie-Game "Spirit Island" Launches at Full Speed onto iOS and Android Platforms Worldwide.

San Francisco, September 21, 2015—Indie gaming company Nieblo Labs has announced the launch of its inaugural adventure "Spirit Island" on iOS and Android platforms, and gamers everywhere have hit the ground running to save the Islands of Aerilon!

This action-packed platformer adventure offers gamers a high speed, hilarious and scintillating experience as they join forces with Toru to liberate his homeland. Across the treacherous forests, beaches and snow fields of Aerilon, gamers will battle the sorcerer Baadu's reptilian henchman. Both gamer minds and reflexes will be challenged as they race across fifty levels of nefarious crocodiles and other vile beasts, yawning mudpits, rogue boulders, steaming swamps, tenacious stompers, and so much more. Gamers will swipe, jump and dodge their way into glory, all while enjoying that sublime old-school platformer feel.

"We are thrilled to be offering players world-wide more than your usual mobile platform game," said Alan Villalobos, co-founder of Nieblo Labs. "The joy of overcoming obstacles at full speed is enhanced in "Spirit Island" by fresh graphics, a sense of humor, a catchy and rhythmic soundtrack, the opportunity to collaborate with friends on facebook, and an innovative tap and swipe interface. We hope you enjoy saving the Islands as much as we enjoyed creating them!"

Spirit island was developed using the indie version of the Unity game engine (unity3d.com).
